John C. Clark

Mr. Clark has 30 years of law enforcement experience with specialization in officer survival, firearms training, field training and evaluation, the incident command system, community policing, handling mass fatalities, counter terrorism planning, developing emergency response teams, emergency planning, crime scene safety, responding to bombings and weapons of mass destruction.

He is a retired lieutenant from Oklahoma City Police Department and recently retired as the Director of Emergency Management and WMD coordinator for Oklahoma City. During his career with Oklahoma City Police Department, his assignments included patrol, investigations, training and emergency planner. He responded to the Murrah bombing in Oklahoma City in 1995 as an Emergency Response Team (ERT) Lieutenant, as well as the F-5 tornado that struck Oklahoma City in May of 1999.

As an instructor he has taught police related and emergency management courses for the Oklahoma Council for Law Enforcement Education and Training, Louisiana State University, University of Arkansas, Oklahoma State University and New Mexico Tech. The courses include: Law Enforcement Response to Weapons of Mass Destruction, Crime Scene Safety, Incident Command System and Incident Response to Terrorist Bombings. Furthermore, he has assisted in the development and instructing of numerous law enforcement and emergency management courses for local, state and federal counterparts as well as private industry.

John Clark was the primary instructor and facilitator for the Emergency Response Team of the Oklahoma City Police Department. He is a graduate of the 161st session of the FBI academy and holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Criminal Justice. He sat on the executive board of the Oklahoma City Metropolitan Medical Response System (MMRS) as well as the senior advisory board for the development of WMD response teams for the State of Oklahoma. He currently a member of the FCC's warning committee and Murrah Memorial Safety and Security committee.

Mr. Clark is a certified Emergency Manager and rewrote the Emergency Operations Plan for Oklahoma City (sanctioned in February 2001). He is a lifelong resident of Oklahoma and enjoys his family of five children and five grandchildren with his wife Carol as well as collecting police memorabilia.
